PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

The degree is studied over three years and there are three terms each year: Michaelmas (autumn), Hilary (spring) and Trinity (summer). Michaelmas and Hilary are twelve weeks long. Trinity is eight weeks long.

The Michaelmas and Hilary terms both consist of eight to ten weeks of intensive study for the degree programme, with one Reading Week and the remaining week for Collections (individual meetings with the student and their tutors to review their performance over the term).

The Trinity term consists of three to four weeks of teaching and revision, three of exams, and then a fortnight of other activities and preparation for courses to be studied in the year ahead.

The courses in English, the minor subject, will be taught over the whole of the academic year. The courses in Politics and IR, the major subject, may be taught in more concentrated periods through the year.

STRUCTURE OF THE POLITICS AND IR MAJOR (270 credits)

The Politics and IR major consists of nine courses:

Second Year: NCH504 Literary Kinds (30 credits)

Third Year: NCH612 Comparative Literature (30 credits)

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

AGE

An applicant must normally be at least 17 years of age at the time of registration, and keeping in line with the College's policy, normally turn 18 before December 31st of that academic year.

GENERAL ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

The College reviews application forms, grades, personal statements, references, work samples, and interview performance, before making offers of places on its programmes. Typically offers will only be made to candidates with three subjects at GCE A level (normally holding or predicted not less than grade A) or the equivalent. Provisional admissions decisions are made by the Head of Faculty and/or Admissions Officer of the faculty of the major subject for which the student has applied. These decisions are approved by the Head of Faculty and/or Admissions Officer of the minor subject before formal offers are made.

SPECIFIC ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Politics and IR Major: None.

English Minor: None.

RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING

Where a student wishes to apply for the recognition of prior learning on the basis of certificated or experiential learning, they should follow the Solent University RPL procedure: Academic Handbook Section 2H, Recognition of Prior Learning and Credit Transfer. Credits obtained by students taking the University of London International Programme can apply to be transferred to this degree programme.

AIMS OF THE PROGRAMME

The study of Politics comprises political theory looking at normative questions and political science looking at the organisation of government. The programme analyses the relationship between the individual and the state, the sources of state authority and forms of government. It fosters understanding of resource distribution and value allocation. There are two aspects to the study of politics: 'political theory/philosophy', which looks at theories of the best societal organisation, while 'political science' encompasses institutions, constitutions, and power.

International Relations is the study of the interactions amongst states and International Organisations at regional and global level comparatively across time and space. It examines governance, institution-building and policy-making through an analysis of historical phenomena, economic conditions, diplomatic relations, security and socio-cultural linkages. The utility of the most efficient outcomes for international society is assessed through an understanding of theoretical debates and practical examples.

The central aim of the English minor is to give students the relevant conceptual tools, skills, and knowledge, to read literature with a greater understanding and enjoyment for the rest of their lives.

KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING

The programme aims to:

- analyse texts, evidence, and other literary texts, with guidance, using given approaches, techniques, and principles, in order to understand the centrality of human activity and discourse to political science, the contribution of major schools of thought and mainstream thinkers embedded within primarily Western, but also Eastern traditions of modern political thought;
- collect and categorise ideas and information in a predictable and standard format by applying theories and methods of policy, institutional and behavioural analysis;
- evaluate critically material so as to contribute to existing debates on topical issues relating to power delegation, power shifts and distribution, the nature, evolution and operation of different political systems and their organisational structures.
- provide knowledge of literature.

SUBJECT-SPECIFIC SKILLS

The programme aims to:

- understand and operate independent problem-solving, so as to apply given comparative and historical methods of analysis carefully to a well-defined problem, in order to begin to appreciate the complexity of the issues in the discipline and develop independent critical thinking;
- learn how to work within an appropriate ethos and use and access a range of learning resources;
- manage information, collect appropriate material from a range of sources and undertake research tasks to develop and promote critical thinking and analysis in political science;
- foster the ability to analyse literature in sophisticated ways.

TRANSFERABLE SKILLS

The programme aims to:

- encourage open-mindedness and an ability to question assumptions, and enable the students to arrive at own conclusions;
- aid in self-development into organized and interactive individuals by practising selection, analysis, assimilation and communication (written and oral);
- enable students to situate and engage readily and critically with policy and institutional questions and texts that they encounter after their formal studies end;
- enable students to progress to postgraduate studies.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

[Politics and IR (Po); English (En)]

KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING

The student will be able to:

- K1c (Po) relate theoretical models to existing debates in political science;
- K2c (Po) outline the development of key governing structures within their correct historical context;
- K3c (Po) understand the dynamic inter-relatedness between national governments and supranational institutions and structures, as well as a wealth of non-state actors;
- K4c (En) use a vocabulary appropriate to describe the nature and conventions of literature of an extended range of periods and provenances.

SUBJECT-SPECIFIC SKILLS

The student will be able to:

- S1c (Po) conduct detailed textual analysis from a variety of intellectual traditions;
- S2c (Po) critically analyse arguments and understand when and how these might be flawed or invalid;
- S3c (Po) cross traditional subject boundaries, examining the inter-relatedness of other disciplines and practices, and recognise philosophical doctrines in unfamiliar places;
- S4c (En) have an advanced ability to analyse literature using a range of methodologies.

TRANSFERABLE SKILLS

The student will be able to:

- T1c (Po) show fluent and effective communication and discussion skills in a written and oral context;
- T2c (Po) handle ideas in rational, critical and evaluative ways; be open-minded and have a capacity for independent judgment;
- T3c (Po) manage own learning, including working effectively towards pre-set deadlines;
- T4c (En) present complex arguments in speech and writing, with relation to verbal art.

All of the above learning outcomes are mapped to the relevant QAA Subject Benchmark threshold statement - see Appendix A. For learning outcomes of exit awards see Appendix B.

TEACHING AND LEARNING STRATEGIES

STRATEGIES

The Politics and International Relations and English faculties make use of various teaching and learning strategies, including:

- Individual tutorials (based on an essay submitted beforehand by the student)
- Lectures
- Group tutorials (often involving a student presentation)
- Seminars (particularly for Logic)
- Visits to organisations (e.g. EC representation, UNIMO, Parliament)
- Consolidation and revision workshops
- Examinations and examiners' reports
- Independent study and research

Teaching starts from central concepts and problems, prompts and encourages independent reading and research, and facilitates lively, structured, discussion in individual tutorials and groups. Students receive detailed feedback on their essays, and ideas and arguments are approached from new angles and in new contexts so as to enable consolidation and review of material.

The programme is designed to progress naturally over the three years. The later courses build on each other in content and style. Students will develop a sophistication of thinking as they work through them, and their third-year dissertation will allow them to develop this in collaboration with a supervisor.

RESOURCES

Study is supported by a Virtual Learning Environment, Moodle, where students can preview and download course descriptors, lecture handouts, reading lists, and supplementary materials. Students also have access to Senate House Library and online research resources, such as JSTOR.

Sample and/or past examination papers, as well as examiners' reports, are available, on Moodle, to help students understand what is expected of them.

WIDENING PARTICIPATION

The faculty is committed to widening participation in Politics and International Relations with English, both through outreach programmes and through a teaching environment that is inclusive towards a wide variety of backgrounds and learning styles. The faculty visits a wide range of schools on a regular basis, hosts open politics lectures, engages with mass and social media, as well as international organisations and publishes in accessible formats. With an emphasis on questions and lack of reliance on specific prior knowledge, the politics and international relations programme is well suited to widening participation and to offering effective support for students from a variety of backgrounds. The individual tutorials, and the high staff-student ratio, are especially important to our ability to be inclusive towards a variety of backgrounds and learning styles.

The programme is designed to explain how the topics relate to everyday life within a global and interdependent world. Students are encouraged to apply their knowledge to practical tasks, such as green living, sustainable cities, conflict resolution, diplomatic strategy building, etc. The programme allows the student to understand both their immediate environment within the state, but also how this feeds into international society.

RESEARCH

The faculty aims to provide a lively, open, and interactive teaching environment, in which research and teaching are complementary. Teaching is allocated in line with research interests and expertise, and the faculty facilitates a wide range of academic and social events in which academics and students are brought together. In addition to the specific digital literacy and research skills taught in the first course, during the first term of each of the three years of the programme, the lecturer in one of the Politics courses makes a particular point of building the teaching of digital literacy and research skills into their lectures. The skills taught become more sophisticated in each successive year, eventually going into the fine details of referencing and the layout of a scholarly article.

ASSESSMENT

Assessment in Politics & International Relations with English aims to test:

- knowledge and understanding of key problems and debates;
- ability to reason rigorously, critically, creatively and autonomously;
- the management of discursive analysis and argument, including an awareness of alternative or contextualising lines of argument;
- fluent and effective communication of ideas;
- informed engagement with scholarly debates.

Courses in Politics and International Relations with English are assessed in a wide variety of ways

POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS MAJOR:

- Examinations
- Coursework
- Dissertation

ENGLISH MINOR:

- Examinations
- Coursework.

Appendix C is the programme structure and assessment summary.

ASSESSMENT REGULATIONS

The assessment regulations are annexed to the College Assessment Policy, which can be found on the College website.

STUDENT SUPPORT

DISABILITIES AND/OR SPECIFIC LEARNING DIFFICULTIES (SPLDS)

When students arrive they are asked to complete a Medical Disclosure Form, where they can list any medical conditions, disabilities and/or SpLDs and make a note of who can have access to this information. This data is managed and securely stored by the College. During Freshers' Week a number of talks and events are held which are designed to support and inform students with regard to mental health, disabilities, safety and learning support.

The Learning and Assessment Support Officer (LASO) meets with students soon after Freshers' Week to discuss their needs and help set up support systems both within the College (if appropriate) and externally. If requested by the student, the LASO will then arrange to meet with relevant academic staff to discuss the student's needs and the ways these might impact on their studies. If students request specific arrangements (for e.g. submission extensions, use of a laptop, special exam conditions, etc.) they are asked to submit approved medical documentation to Student and Academic Services.

If a student is undiagnosed but believes they may have an SpLD (e.g. Dyslexia) the LASO will help them to access support groups and assessment centres. If the assessment confirms an SpLD, the LASO will discuss further support options with the student and their tutors. The LASO is in contact with local dyslexia tutors for advice to the College or student referral. The College can help provide students with special learning equipment (e.g. coloured paper, reading pens, dictation software, etc.).

CAREERS EDUCATION, INFORMATION AND GUIDANCE

The College Careers Adviser will meet with each student in the first term, to work with the student to identify career goals and create a personal plan so that those goals might be realised on graduation. The College organises two employer evenings each year, where potential employers are invited into the College to meet with the students. In addition, staff at the College source on an ad hoc basis internships and work experience opportunities which are then promoted to College students.

The College runs LAUNCH, which represents part of the NCH Diploma and has been designed in collaboration with the CBI – the Confederation of British Industry. This has been designed to develop the attitudes, behaviours and capabilities that will prepare students for the world of work. It consists of two substantial projects, where students are required to work in teams to address real world briefs, and weekly seminars covering financial literacy, negotiation skills, working in teams, writing and presenting and so on.

QUALITY EVALUATION AND ENHANCEMENT

AWARD STANDARDS

Every programme of study is developed and approved by the College's Academic Board and then validated by Solent University.

REVIEW AND EVALUATION MECHANISMS

Procedures are in place to assure the quality of the programme development, delivery, management, systematic monitoring and on-going review and enhancement of all of the College's programmes. Enhancements are made as necessary to ensure that systems remain effective and rigorous.

- Annual programme reports are prepared in order to enhance individual programmes and to plan ahead.
- Annual Examiner reports are prepared by independent External Examiners to confirm that a programme has been assessed properly and meets the appropriate academic standards.
- Formal student feedback mechanisms consist of course surveys on a termly basis and the Student-Staff Liaison Committee.
- Informal student feedback is also valued by the College and this can take the form of students talking to their tutor or professional staff (Registrar, Student Wellbeing Coordinator, etc.).

Recognise the ways in which key concepts, theories and methods are used to analyse political ideas, institutions and behaviour.	K1 - 3
Describe and illustrate different interpretations of political issues and events.	S3
Describe and illustrate different approaches involved in collecting political information, including how to: identify issues for political enquiry; recognise their ethical implications; and gather, organise and deploy evidence from a limited range of sources.	K4, S1, S4
Identify and investigate problems.	K4, S1, T2-4
Develop a reasoned argument and synthesise information.	S2-S3, T1, T4
Make use of constructive feedback.	T2
Manage their own learning with guidance and support.	T3
Communicate ideas, both orally and in writing.	K4, T1
Use communication and information technologies for the retrieval and presentation of information.	S1, T4
Undertake academic work with guidance and support.	K1-4, S1-T1-4
Collaborate with others to achieve common goals.	T1

*This is intended to mean that all students (taken over all years) graduating with an honours degree in this discipline will have achieved this.

MAP TO QAA ENGLISH SUBJECT BENCHMARK

Threshold*	Learning Outcomes
Graduates who have studied English as a significant component of their degree will be able to demonstrate their knowledge of the subject as defined by the breadth of the curriculum indicated in section 3 above.	K4, S4
Their knowledge will include awareness of the different ideas and values represented in and through literature and language and of how different critical and creative approaches to them are themselves productive of knowledge.	S4
Graduates in English will be able to demonstrate powers of textual analysis and critical argument and will display competence in written English, and in oral expression. They will show an awareness of the affective power of language, and a self-critical approach to their own writing.	S4, T5
They will be able to consider views other than their own and exercise a degree of independent critical judgement in the close reading of texts.	S4
They will be able to conduct research through self-formulated questions and tasks, supported by the gathering of relevant information and organised lines of enquiry, resulting in a sustained piece or pieces of work.	S4, T5

*This is intended to mean that all students (taken over all years) graduating with an honours degree in this discipline will have achieved this.

APPENDIX B – LEARNING OUTCOMES FOR EXIT AWARDS

1. LEARNING OUTCOMES FOR AWARD OF CERTIFICATE IN HIGHER EDUCATION:

Knowledge and understanding

The student will be able to:

- K1a (Po) identify some aspects of a theoretical model in existing debates in political science;
- K2a (Po) show limited knowledge of key governing structures within their correct historical context;
- K3a (Po) understand the dynamic inter-relatedness between national governments and supranational institutions and structures, as well as some non-state actors;
- K4a (En) use a vocabulary appropriate to describe the nature and conventions of literature of a limited range of periods and provenances.

Subject-specific skills

Transferable skills

The student will be able to:

- T1a (Po) show adequate communication and discussion skills in a written and oral context;
- T2a (Po) present ideas in rational ways;
- T3a (Po) manage own learning, including working effectively towards pre-set deadlines
- T4a (En) present simple arguments in speech and writing with relation to verbal art.

2. LEARNING OUTCOMES FOR AWARD OF DIPLOMA IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Knowledge and understanding

The student will be able to:

- K1b (Po) with guidance, relate theoretical models to existing debates in political science;
- K2b (Po) show an understanding of key governing structures within their correct historical context;
- K3b (Po) understand the dynamic inter-relatedness between national governments and supranational institutions and structures, as well as non-state actors;
- K4b (En) demonstrate a vocabulary appropriate to describe the nature and conventions of literature of a moderate range of periods and provenances.

Subject-specific skills

The student will be able to:

- S1b (Po) conduct textual analysis from different intellectual traditions;
- S2b (Po) analyse arguments and understand when and how these might be flawed or invalid;
- S3b (Po) cross traditional subject boundaries, examining the inter-relatedness of other disciplines and practices;
- S4b (En) show an intermediate ability to analyse literature using a range of methodologies.

Transferable skills

The student will be able to:

- T1b (Po) show effective communication and discussion skills in a written and oral context;
- T2b (Po) handle ideas in rational and evaluative ways;
- T3b (Po) manage own learning, including working effectively towards pre-set deadlines;
- T4b (En) present moderately complex arguments in speech and writing with relation to verbal art.
