The role

The New College of Humanities at Northeastern invites applications for fixed term lectureships in Law for the academic year 2022/2023. Duties of this post include teaching (this may include lectures, seminars, and tutorials) in Law. The appointee may act as a course leader for their subject, write, mark, and provide feedback on assessments and formative work in their subject, and participate in the marking and moderation of other law subjects. Part of the advertised role may involve participating in redesigning content and the mode through which the courses are delivered.

Teaching is delivered on site at our Central London location. The appointee may be required to assist generally in the organisation of Law teaching at NCH and may be required to supervise Law undergraduate dissertations. Ordinary duties of the role also include administrative responsibilities, help with student admissions and outreach, and providing pastoral care to students.

We wish to appoint specialists in a variety of Law subjects, including: Contract Law, Property Law, Equity and Trusts, Tort Law, European Union Law, Public Law, Competition Law, Company Law and Criminology.

We are open to appointing on a reduced fraction/job-share basis subject to our business needs.

To be considered for a full-time appointment (1.0 FTE), the applicant will be required to offer teaching in at least 3 of the listed subjects.

Preference may be given to candidates with active interests in the relationship of Law to one or more of the following areas: software and/or technology; employment contexts; diversity and inclusion.

We particularly encourage applications from those with an interest in innovative teaching, learning and assessment; those with experience of supporting a wide variety of students; and those belonging to groups underrepresented in UK higher education

The Law Faculty

The Faculty of Law at New College of the Humanities currently has under 100 undergraduate students and hosts a smaller number of Northeastern University undergraduate exchange students every year. Some Law students study for a law degree only and some study for joint degrees.. The Faculty regularly has 3 full-time and 6 part-time members of academic staff. The Law Faculty seeks to foster and nurture interdisciplinary ties with other faculties and with our colleagues at Northeastern University in Boston.

About the College

Founded in 2012, New College of the Humanities has established itself as a prestigious higher education institution based in the heart of London. After becoming part of Northeastern University's global network in early 2019, the College has undergone a period of rapid growth, having been granted Taught Degree Awarding Powers in February 2020 and moved to a new, state-of-the-art campus in 2021. NCH continues to grow further expanding its student cohort, courses, network and opportunities.
